

Connecticut River Defenders invites the community to a special showing of the film

a Beast Touch the Mountain

Mountain Valley Pipeline and the fight for Appalachia presented by the director James Mottern

A group of Appalachian women in Bent Mountain, Virginia fought for a decade to protect their land and their way of life against a greedy and corrupt fossil fuel pipeline. The fight gets tougher and more violent as mysterious shell company Mountain Valley Pipeline gets a laid-out-in-law go-ahead from Joe Manchin to put pipe in the ground.

Wednesday, March 4 5:30 pm

Greenfield Public Library Community Room

For information please write to ctriverdefenders@gmail.com